Cordilline has been making the same coat since 1962. The brief was three words long — don't get clever — and most of the work after that was figuring out how to honor it.

The wordmark stayed. The voice stayed. The Glade Coat stayed exactly the way it had been cut since 1971. We rebuilt everything around it.

Cordilline's customer is not the person buying their first wool coat. It's the person whose father owned one. Both of them already know what the brand is for.

THE SYSTEM UNDERNEATH.
